11 BRAND NEW GUNS

ALSO AVAILABLE FOR ORDER F3 AMERICAN TRAP

Blaser have introduced many outstanding totally new design features in the F3.

Modular construction allows total interchange ability of all components. By purchasing extra components one gun can easily be converted for Game, Sporting or Competition shooting.

World Champion John Bidwell, three times World Sporting Clays winner, used a prototype at the UK Sporting Championships, followed by the World Championships a fortnight later, and won both titles.

President's Report

It has been relatively quiet on the shooting side lately, but things are about to hot up. Firstly, the Secondary School Nationals are to be held at Canterbury on the 27th – 29th September. School shooting is still very much alive and well, with over 250 shooters at the North Island Championships recently.

Last year we implemented a recommendation that the referee and marker at school shoots must hold a firearms license to solve the direct supervision law. This worked quite well but still needs to be adhered to. I realise that it takes some organisation, but we have to be seen to be taking this seriously. This means that the shooters, parents and teachers also have to do their bit and be responsible. We are all expecting big things again this year along, with Fish and Game and Beretta New Zealand once again being very generous with their sponsorship.

Later in the year the South Island DTL Championships are to be held in Invercargill. The South Islands generally benefit from the Barrytown shoot the week before. So I look forward to that, especially as it is being hosted by my home club and also because we are having a council meeting in town just before, a first I believe.

Three weeks later the Skeet Nationals are being contested at Waitemata. I know the team up there is taking this shoot very seriously, with a full week of skeet to look forward to.

The timing of the North/South Skeet teams event and the Glenn Trophy requires some serious debate between Council and skeet shooters. With Australia and ourselves changing the dates of our Skeet Nationals, this event has got out of kilter. We will be liaising with senior skeet shooters to ensure the wishes of the majority are catered for.

At the time of writing this report most of the DTL World team have either left or are getting ready to go. Having been to the four previous worlds, I still look forward to the experience. Ireland, having been there before, still holds special memories for me. The people, the camaraderie and the mannerisms of the people leave special memories and it is something I am really looking forward to. I'm sure that many a funny story will come back with the team and hopefully just as many good results.

The long-running saga of the range certification has taken another twist, with the distance of 180 metres not finding favour with the Police. Accepting that we had to act, we have put up a case with the facts and figures supplied to us by other countries which have to conform to similar range standards. We now have 200 metres as our range standard for distance, subject to approval.

At the last executive meeting of the New Zealand Shooting Federation some good news was received that Tony Weymouth is to come back to kick start the Federation into gear. This will be under different terms than last time. As the High Performance manager he will be responsible for all aspects of ISSF, including sport development, liaison with SPARC, funding high performance through to 2012, selection criteria, contestable fund etc. I look forward to working with Tony in the future as I feel he is the best guy to get this show back on the road.

I look forward to seeing you around the traps soon.

Trevor Manson

STOP PRESS

Great Results at World DTL

Our congratulations go to Colin Waghorn (Gorge Road) for winning the Open World DTL in Ireland.

Natalie Rooney (Timaru) won the Ladies with Natalie Curtis second. Both Natalie's combined with Anja van der Wetering to win the Ladies Teams. In the team events the NZ Open Team was 2nd, NZ Juniors 2nd and the NZ Veterans 3rd.

Full report in the next Gunshot along with a report from Beijing where Nadine and Graeme were out of the finals.

Secretary's Notes

Postal Shoots

Clubs are reminded that nominations for the Allan Brown and HC Walker Postal Shoots must be in the National Office no later than 30 September. Team nomination must be accompanied with the entry fee. The Allan Brown is a 5 person 25pr Double Rise event and the HC Walker Postal Events is a 5 person 100 Tgt Skeet Event. Team entries are $5.00 per team.

Club Levies at Sporting and ISSF Shoots

Clubs are reminded that they must charge the $2.00 daily levy and an additional $1.00 daily sporting levy on ALL sporting clay shoots for ALL shooters (NZCTA registered or not). This includes duck shooters shoots.

ISSF events incur an additional $2.00 per person per day levy. This is in addition to all other levies/fees charged.

Please ensure these additional levies are clearly identified when making payment.

Next Issue Close Off Date

Copy for the next issue (Nov/Dec) will close off on 1st October. No late copy will be accepted. All clubs hosting Open Shoots and Association Championships must advertise these in Gunshot.

NORTHLAND

2008 PROVINCIALS

HOA High Gun Martin van de Wetering

Whangarei 31 May/1 June.

Everyone had their fingers crossed for good weather and this seemed to have helped because the conditions were generally good; nice and still, with only a few pesky showers on day one and of course the pleasant balmy "northern temperatures!" Turnout was a bit lower than last year, about 70 shooters showed up, with quite a few shooters from Northland missing! We hope that this is not a portent of things to come with the higher prices for just about anything!

ERCEG AND BROWNE-COLE TOP MID-WINTER SHOOT

From Pat Pope

Auckland "Met" turned on good targets for the Clarke/Brady mid-winter tournament on June 29, in spite of the foul weather that had gripped the North Island for most of the previous week. The solid 60 shooter attendance performed well even in the morning rain, although the afternoon sun was welcomed by all.

"Red Chalk" was in abundance over the 100 targets with sixty two 25s denoting the high standard of shooting that is prevalent today. This shoot, sponsored by the popular Les Clarke and the family of the late Steve Brady, offered 20 high standard trophies over A-B-C grades and the 100 target Single Rise event also featured the Brady Memorial run, in conjunction with the middle 50 targets. Steve Brady was a respected Auckland Met member, a cobber of Les Clarke, and this year marked the 10th anniversary of his tragic passing.

Officiating at the prize giving with Les and President Ray Moorhead was Mrs Jackie Brady, whose attendance was most appreciated by all.

Shot in four rounds of 25, 12 shooters shot the first round clean and were on their way to the magic ton, but slowly, both of them fell by the wayside as the journey progressed, leaving the on-form Todd Hamilton, Ethan Erceg, Rob Maskell and Myles Browne-Cole all on after the 100 targets were completed. These shooters had, of course, also qualified for the Brady Memorial, but the Trophy shoot-off was held first and Ethan Erceg whittled away at the field to take HOA honours.

Topping the A grade was Rob Maskell, with four more places taken in order by Myles Browne-Cole, Todd Hamilton, Graeme Gilby (99/100) and Chris Erceg (98/100).

The B grade section was topped by Andrew Garshaw, who bested Clinton Hunt after both qualified for shoot-off honours on 94/100. Similarly Don McBeath and Ted Tyrrell tied on 92/100, with Don securing 3rd place and Ted having to be content with 4th. This left Max Matsell with 91/100 on 5th place.

C grade was not to be left out of the shoot-off lists, with Grant Forster (94/100) taking 1st place from Shawn Sands (94/100) after a short tussle. Third and forth places also resulted in a battle when both Geoff Gleeson and Ross Hunter carded 91s but Geoff prevailed. Fifth place was taken outright by Andrew Speed (86/100).

Then came the "Brady". Seven shooters smoked the "middle 50", but it took 38 more targets for Myles Browne-Cole to subdue Todd Hamilton, who dropped his 38th target. Ray Hickey was out on his 25th, Ethan Erceg never made it past his 17th, Graham Gilby dumped his 16th, Mike Hirtzel his 10th and Rob Maskell down the tubes on his 7th. But – good fun was had by all.

Back to the main trophies, and we must not forget the sterling performance of Rose Maskell (Ladies), Rick Griffin (Veterans) and Jesse Whitehead (Juniors).

The club offers sincere thanks to the sponsors Les Clarke and Jackie Brady.

SECONDARY SCHOOLS TROPHY SHOOT

Friday 4th July 2008 at Waikato Gun Club

Hosts: Hamilton Boys High School

There was a large turnout with 42 teams and over 200 individual entries. The shoot was used by most as a warm up event to the North Island Secondary School championships the following day. The event ran very smoothly, and made good use of the facilities at the WGC.

The program consisted of 20 target single rise, 20 target points score and 20 target single barrel. The individual trophy was shot over the single rise and single barrel, the team event was over the points score.

Results:

Teams Event Boys: 1st Whangarei Boys High #2 294/300 (Ian King, Hugh McKenzie, Hayden Gootle, Rhys Were, Josh Wilson), 2nd Whangarei Boys High #1 290/300, (Nick Gavin, Brent Martin, Ethan Erceg, Tim Mannion, Logan Rankin), 3rd Hamilton Boys High 290/300 (Matt Lanigan, Cameron Muggeridge, Blair Houseley, Thomas Potter, Adam Hussey).

Wanganui Apologise for Trench Shoot

Wanganui Clay Target Club Committee would like to apologise for the inconvenience to any shooters who turned up for the Trench Shoot that was advertised on the circuit card for Sunday 29 June.

The committee continued working until 11.30 on the Saturday night in an attempt to get the facility up and running, but Murphy and Gremlins had the last say - and it just wasn't going to be possible. The committee regrets any inconvenience this caused to shooters.

Detecting your pattern

In a recent conversation with a group of trapshooters, the subject of patterning a shotgun came up. One gentleman in the group said that he had never patterned his gun and didn't see any reason why it was necessary. That brought on a serious discussion of patterning, and it seemed that everyone had a different opinion on how, why or why not, the purpose, and what patterning could tell us about our shotguns.

One of the fellows in the group, let's call him Jim, explained that he thought patterning was necessary, but that he just didn't seem to be able to hold the gun steady enough to get a true reading. He explained that he had done quite a bit of patterning lately, and the first attempt led him to believe that his gun was shooting to the left. His second attempt indicated a pattern to the right, and his third attempt was left again. He finally gave up on the idea and put the gun away. I would imagine that Jim was patterning his gun by shooting offhand, or just standing there and pointing at the pattern sheet with unsteady hands. He was probably moving the gun a bit as he tried to be as steady as possible, and this is what gave him the scattered patterns. It was suggested to him that he benchrest the gun in order to get a true and steady indication of where the gun was shooting. Jim's reply was that he wasn't trying to see where the gun was shooting, but instead was trying to find out if his pattern was adequate to break targets.

Most of the shooters in the discussion agreed that benchresting the gun would give a true indication of whatever the shooter was looking for when he decided to pattern the gun. The reason for patterning will vary from shooter to shooter, but most is done not only to see what kind of density a pattern offers at a certain distance, but also to give the shooter an indication of where the gun shoots. "Where the gun shoots" is apparently open to interpretation, as I hear a variety of definitions. For example, one shooter will say that his gun shoots a 70/30 pattern. What this means is that when he see's a figure-8 sight picture and is holding the front sight on a target area on the pattern sheet, 70% of his pattern will appear above the target area and 30% will be below. The target area is simply a small dark spot in the centre of the pattern sheet that will allow the shooter to be more precise with his aim and gives the shooter a starting point to measure from. If a horizontal line is drawn through the centre of the target area, pellet holes above the line would be the 70% we mentioned and pellet holes below the line would be the 30%.

A 70/30 pattern is very common in trapshooting, but patterns may also be 80/20, 50/50, or just about anything, depending on the gun and the shooter. That is why guns are normally patterned by forming a figure 8 with the beads, so that they will shoot the same for each shooter.

Another method of describing where a gun shoots is by inches. The gun is patterned in the same manner, but several shots are fired so the centre of the pattern can be determined. If the centre of the pattern is eight inches above the target area, the gun shoots eight inches high at whatever distance is being used. The distance used can be anything from 10 yards to 40 yards, but 30 to 35 yards is the most common. If a gun is being patterned at 30 yards to determine point of impact, and the pattern falls pretty much into a 30inch circle and the gun is determined to be shooting 15 inches high at that distance, then the gun would be shooting 100% high. All the pellets would be above the target area, with the bottom of the pattern being right on top of the target area. Many shooters would consider this to be a high-shooting gun. For a trapgun it really isn't that high.

Most of the time, when trapshooters shoot their targets, the targets are in the process of rising. A pattern that is shooting 100% high gives shooters a built-in vertical lead to compensate for the natural rise of the target. This pattern height seems to work quite well for the experienced shooter, who is usually shooting at rising targets. A new shooter might be a bit slower in acquiring the targets and getting them pointed. Because of this, new shooters are often shooting targets that are not rising as quickly as those being shot by shooters with more experience. If a new shooter like this were to pick up a gun that shot 100% high, he or she might shoot over the top of the targets because of being accustomed to nearly covering the target with the gun. At such a pace, the newer shooter doesn't have the need for a built-in vertical lead.

As shooters gain experience, they normally want progressively higher-shooting guns because they will naturally pick up the pace of the shot. The key word in that last sentence is "naturally". If they try to force speed into their shooting methods, they will find that they lose much of their pointing ability. If they just let themselves progress naturally, they will get better at pointing their targets, and the pace will automatically pick up so they will eventually be shooting their targets when they are on the rise. That is when they will feel the need for a higher-shooting gun.

After hearing the discussion on patterning, our friend Jim decided to return to the patterning board to see what he could learn about his gun. He decided that benchresting the gun to pattern it sounded like a good idea. He was already convinced that the pattern was adequate to break targets, and there were no gaping holes that a target might slip trough. What he now wanted to determine was where his gun shoots when he forms a figure 8 and fires at the pattern sheet. At 30 yards, Jim fired three shots at the target area of the pattern sheet. He discovered that the pattern would receive a 50/50 rating – half his pattern was above the target area, and half was below. Jim has been noticing that he is breaking a lot of his targets on the bottom side and is not hanging very many smokeballs out there. This is what concerned him originally, when he attempted to pattern the gun. His thoughts had been, "Maybe my patterns are not tight enough to break targets well". His shooting had gone downhill for the last year or so, even though he had broken some pretty good scores his first year. Now in his third year, he finally realized that his gun was no longer shooting high enough for him, since he had naturally picked up the pace of his shots and was now shooting a target that was rising faster than the ones when he first started shooting. With a 50/50 pattern, Jim was missing most of his targets on the bottom side, and he realised it was time for a change.

At first Jim decided that all he had to do was point his targets a bit higher, and everything would be back to normal. Jim had to cover his targets to break them well, but his scores still didn't improve because he had trouble doing this on every shot. He finally came to the realization that if he was going to put more shot on more targets, his gun was going to have to shoot higher. Jim's problem is not uncommon, and while he knew what the problem was at this time, he didn't seem to have the solution. His gun had no adjustments built in, and he didn't want to spend the money to buy a new gun that was more suited to his needs.

RELOADERS SUPPLIES 150 TARGETS PULLS THE SHOOTERS IN

The Thames club has never held a 150 target event before. We were not certain how the numbers would go. It certainly brought in shooters from many parts of the North Island and a very successful day it was with 113 shooting for trophies and being in the draw for the Thames Club's drawn prizes of ammo. There was 23 C graders, young and new shooters trying for trophies. Which is great to see. Combined with this shoot for the club's financial members was the Thames Popgun trophy over the first 100 targets and the final of the Rex Innis team cup for clubs, Whitianga, Te Aroha. Kopuku & Thames, over the last 100 targets.

Appreciation and many thanks much go the following: Ron Dent for sponsoring the shoot and deciding to do a 150 targets single rise event and having trophies for Senior Veterans, Veterans, Ladies & Juniors plus HOA/1st in AA, A B, & C grades; Clifford Gubb & Gavin Wenham (students) for arriving early and helping Don to set up. Ross & Aston Baird & Daniel Johnson who gave a lot of help in keeping the traps full; to all that helped with refereeing & scoring, putting scores on the broad and to all others who helped in some way to keep the shoot running smoothly and make the day a success. Thanks to Sally and Gary, my helpers in the office. The Squading shooters took some time with the numbers, plus we ran out of entry forms. In the future Martin will have these on a pen drive in case they are needed. I didn't get my morning coffee until 11.40 am and I needed it.

Weather wise the day wasn't too bad, with the warm to mild temperature dropping when the showers came later in the afternoon.

It was 50 targets per visit to the traps. Round 1. 12 AA = 50 tgts. 5 A = 50 tgts. 2 B = 50 tgts. Round 2. 11 AA = 50 tgts 4 A = 50tgts. 1 B 50tgts. Round 3. Not sure if the wheels were starting to fall off (as the saying goes) or it was because the light was fading with the showers. 9 AA = 50 tgts. 3 A = 50 1 C = 50.

By shoot-off time it was dark. It was decided to have point score and not a single rise shoot-off. Thanks to the owners of the vehicles that were organized into place to use their lights for floodlights.

Senior veterans was won outright by Colin Kennedy with 144/150. Veterans Ray Pearce, Graeme Allen, Graham Geater & Kelvin Ellison all shot 149. In the first shoot-off round they all shot 15 points. Second round Ray took the HOA with 12 points. Junior was won by Jack Norwood with 148/150. Ladies Nadine Stanton & Natalie Curtis, both on 150, did the battle when they went to shoot-off in the AA grade. Natalie took the Ladies HOA and 1st in AA grade, being the only one to shoot the 15 points in round one. Others AA shooters were Martin van de Wetering, Brian Hartley and Des Coe. Round two Des Coe was 2nd, with 14 points. Nadine & Brian went another 4 rounds. Brian finally won 3rd place. A grade 1st Kelvin Ellison 149/150 2nd Chris Robinson 148/150. Shoot-off for 3rd was between Rick Stephens, Graham Fordes and Rob Anderson on 147. Rob Anderson didn't shoot. 3rd Graham with 13 points. C grade there was no shoot-off. 1st Dean Horn 146/150, 2nd Kevin Curtis 144/150, 3rd Lesley Cotter 142/150.

Whitianga won the Rex Innis team cup. As for the Popgun trophy HOA that will have to shoot at a club event in the daylight.

Sorry but the photos I took where not suitable to send into the Gunshot. No matter what setting I tried there was too much reflection from the lights, walls and even the HOA trophies were flashing with their high multi-colours. In the photos they look like spotlights. Have been talking to a couple of pros since, their advice was to get rid of at least two light bulbs from the ceiling; get a flash to bounce of the ceiling, and mark a spot for me to stand and one for the person. Also if you have to use a flash, the shutter stays open longer and the person needs to stand still for awhile after the flash so you do not get that blurring effect.

THE HISTORY OF SKB - In 1548, Portuguese explorers landed on Tanegashima Island in the Province of Kyushu, Japan. These merchants were the first to bring modern guns into Japan during the time of the Japanese Civil War. The clan leaders needed modern weapons for their samurai warriors to run the countryside. By the later half of the 19th century, the Mito clan was well established in an area northeast of Tokyo. In a small gun repair factory, which belonged to the clan, Mr. Shigyo Sakaba (SAKABA) worked as a gunsmith's apprentice. In 1855, at the age of 20, the feudal lord appointed Shigyo Sakaba to the position of gunsmith to supervise the development and production of guns for the clan.
This small factory was known for it's craftsmanship, producing guns of the highest quality and strongest construction.

THE BLASER F3

A confirmed Blaser owner, Mark Stone is the very first journalist to try out the new MkII or Professional specification F3 shotgun and finds a 12-bore the equal of anything on the market.

Same but different

Even UK important Alan Rhone will admit that the first Blaser F3's had a few teething troubles. The downside to this along with early availability problems, had an effect on the gun's reputation. Now, having undergone a series of upgrades the new F3 MkII or Professional, Alan now has a product he can be justifiably confident in. And after trying the new spec F3 Pro for myself, I couldn't possibly disagree.

Although shooting the F3 has already been well documented this F3 is more a case of what you can't see that makes a significant difference. Each single modification combines to produce a whole new experience.

Internal affairs

Solving the original design's sticking problem the angle of the bottom bite has been changed instantly eradicating the stiff top lever sensation. Elsewhere inside the action, the sears, firing pins, cocking levers and ejector tippers have been changed and upgraded to enhance the F3's reliability. The most noticeable effect for the shooter is more consistent strike weights and trigger pulls, the tester's trigger breaking at a consistent 5lbs 3oz on both barrels.

Still exhibiting the matte micron type finish and muzzle flare to accommodate the five Breirley Spectrum extended multi-chokes, the barrels have also undergone defined improvements. The joint that connected each tube to the monobloc has been altered and the interior coating, honing and finish of the barrels has been enhanced to remove the visible rib post mountings.

Weight loss

The familiar helical cross-cut 7-10mm tapering rib now includes a full range of interchangeable colour Hi-Viz beads but it's underneath the fore-end that's of the greatest interest. A fraction short of an inch behind the solid mid-rib there are now two mounting blocks on either side. Corresponding to these mounts are six individual sintered tungsten weights, two weighing 2¼ ounces, four tipping the scales at 1½ ounces each.

By screwing them on in pairs around the locating pin, the initial 8lbs weight can be varied by up to 7½ oz, the balance and feel of the F3 altering accordingly. The beauty of this is that it's a process carried out by the owner, the simple torque screws allowing easy addition or removal until the perfect personal weight and equilibrium is achieved.

Correspondingly four more weights can be added to the balancer bar located within the stock although these aren't included in the initial outfit. The end result, should you be so inclined is a shotgun that could weigh up to 9½ lbs.

Making the grade

Although Class 2 woodwork will still remain available on the other F3's, it's the standard Grade 5 of the Pro that once again lifts the Blaser. The dreaded Schnabel fore-end has been replaced by a well proportioned 'London' patterned design complete with a neater less obtrusive release button. A significant visual and physical improvement in itself it's the standard stock dimensions and profile that augments the instant feel of the F3.

The palm swell and grip has also undergone a noticeable radius reduction whilst the nose has been increased and the undercut for the thumb eased considerably. Likewise, the comb height has been marginally altered to reduce the F3's flat shooting characteristics. Rounding off the stock is a new recoil pad, this soft rubber unit complimented by a stiffer insert on the heel so eliminating the potential for drag on the 'gun down' disciplines. The end result is an overall more positive feel when the gun is mounted, the external improvement giving the F3 Pro a completely revised physical sensation.

TURNS PROFESSIONAL

Groundwork

"The balance was as near perfect as I could possibly wish for".

Irrespective of whether it was Skeet, DTL or ESP there wasn't one of Coniston SG's birds the F3 Pro couldn't effectively accommodate. Two high scoring rounds of Skeet highlighted the need to make a minor modification. Initially I'd attached two of the 1½oz barrel weights in the rearward position. As this felt more or less what I'd want. My mistake was the position, the muzzles were way too light. And it's a situation like this that highlights the Pro's instant adaptability, two minutes with the torque to reposition them at the front of the barrel mounting block and the Blaser's balance was as near perfect as I could possibly wish for.

> "The balance was as near perfect as I could possibly wish for"

Now weighing 8lbs 3oz, two details of DTL saw nothing more than a bird away on each. The noticeable effect of F3's enhancements is that it is one of the crispest, slickest shotguns you'll ever pick up from the moment you push the now silken top-lever to break the action to the instant the clay breaks. The gun feels faster, more positive in the execution of its functions, the trigger response is quicker, the entirety of the action's mechanical attitude altogether more receptive. Likewise recoil or rather the lack of it, the angle of the head to action as near flawless as you're currently likely to find.

Combined with the new London-style fore-end to the re-profiled palm swell, grip and slimmed stock head, the new F3 has become one of the most compliant sporters you're likely to pick up. Besides the secure comfort of the new fine-cut laser checkering and fore-end, the dimensions of the stock and grip give the F3 a fluid sensation, a feeling of instant adaptability and motion within the hands.

Along with the significantly important input of both Alan Rhone and Erwin Peumans have resulted in a new series of competition shotguns that will more than make their mark at each and every level of the sport. Pound for pound the new F3 Pro comes in at a price that should seriously worry the competition, £4400 pitching it directly into a section of the market others have, for too long, considered their own exclusive preserve.

Where the new Blaser also differs is in the fact that current F3 owners can upgrade their existing F3's to Pro specifications, the new action mechanism transferable into the older action chassis. Likewise, maintaining the F3 modular design, the new barrels can be fitted along with the newly contoured stocks and fore-end. No matter how you look at it whether it's the new F3 Pro or one of the earlier examples, there's no such animal as an old Blaser. By Courtesy of Pull Magazine

TO THE EDITOR

I would like to comment on the proposed removal in 2009 of the Student Shooter's category in the national membership. It is of some concern to me that when talking to people around the traps there is very little if any knowledge of the proposal. It seems to me that the Secondary Schools Shooting committee is trying to introduce this by stealth without any consultation/debate by the membership. I'm not sure where a non-elected committee gets the right to do that, regardless of the good work they do otherwise.

One of the reasons for this change that has been doing the rounds is that students want to get 'Gunshot'. If that was the case surely they become junior members and get it. Another reason I've heard is that the student membership is subsidised. How can this be when Junior membership costs $35 vs $10 for student membership and the only difference is the 'Gunshot', which costs $25 p.a. Yet another is so that students can shoot outside their clubs and school shoots if they wish to. If they want to do that then they can become Junior members which allows this. All in all, pretty spurious stuff.

Personally I'm in favour of students being able to shoot up to District level before having to become junior members. This I believe would encourage more students to become more heavily involved in the sport. If for whatever reason the powers that be decide to amalgamate Student shooters with junior shooters, then perhaps on the membership application there could be a box inserted in which the applicants indicate whether or not they wish to receive a copy of 'Gunshot'. This would effectively keep the status quo as far as costs to students or their parents goes and result in no extra administration effort/costs. Also, it reflects the current situation, where if there is more than one member in a household only one 'Gunshot' goes to that household.

Finally, I would encourage everyone affected by this change to have their say.

Yours faithfully,

Mike McCormick

So much goes into making our clay targets, we chose to be the first to take something out – coal tar pitch.

All our targets are now made from an environmentally friendly formula that's kinder to the countryside.

- CPC clays are broken throughout New Zealand. For the same prices as clays manufactured from toxic coal tar pitch you can buy CPC NON TOXIC clays. Think about this before your next purchase.
- CPC clays are engineered right to fly right. From standards to rabbits, from minis to battues – all our clays are engineered to consistently perform better.
- That's why CPC should always be your first choice clay target.

Our Targets are Kinder to the Countryside...
