

Target shooting in Aotearoa New Zealand

Welcome to Aotearoa New Zealand.

New Zealand has a rich history of competitive target shooting. Local shooters like to test their skills against the best. Our national bodies welcome overseas shooters to compete in target shooting competitions.

There are a few things to know about firearms possession and use while you are in New Zealand.

Under New Zealand law, the possession and use of firearms in New Zealand is a privilege. This means all firearms users must comply with the relevant legislation and regulations.

Visitors will need a visitor's firearms licence to possess and use firearms in New Zealand, unless under the immediate supervision of a firearms licence holder. You also need a permit to import to bring your own firearms and ammunition with you.

A visitor's firearms licence:

- may be granted to a person who is fit and proper as outlined in the Arms Act 1983 and Arms Regulations 1992.
- is granted for the length of time that you are competing and travelling in New Zealand.
- has a maximum term of twelve months from arrival date.

New Zealand law requires that you must apply for a new licence for each separate visit to New Zealand.

When to apply

Applications for Visitors licence should be made at least four months before your planned arrival date.

The Firearms Safety Authority does not accept applications made more than six months before your planned arrival date.

Preparing to apply

You will be asked for information about yourself, your home country licence or permit to possess firearms and your planned shooting activities in New Zealand.

You are also required to provide copies of documents that confirm the details provided in your application.

Have PDF copies or images of the following available before you start your licence application:

- Passport (identifying details page)
- Firearms Licence, Permit, or equivalent document for your country of residency
- Competition entry confirmation
- Passport style photo (head and shoulders only).

As part of the application process, you must complete a test about the safe use and possession of firearms. You should review New Zealand's Firearms Safety Code available and the transport and storage guide.

Apply for your visitor's firearms licence

All applications must be made using our online application portal.

Use the Visitor's firearms licence application form.

RealMe: We use RealMe, a New Zealand government secure login service to access Visitor Licensing. If you don't have a RealMe login you will be guided through the process at the start of your application.

First time users must set up their User Profile before starting their licence application.

New and returning users start their new licence application at the 'Manage my Firearms' page. Select 'Visitor Firearms Licence' under the heading 'Apply'. Complete all fields on each page. Provide an answer for all questions.

If the question is not relevant to your visit you can answer with 'Not applicable' (or N/A).

You must upload all requested documents or images for a page before you can proceed to the next page of the form.

Your licence application is completed in the following order:

1. Licence eligibility – confirm you are eligible to apply for a visitor licence.
2. Firearms Safety Test – basic safe handling theory test.
3. Identification (passport details) – details of your passport, image of the details page and a passport style photo.
4. Travel details (arrival and departure flights) – Details of how you will get to New Zealand, and how you will travel home.
5. Visit details – details of your travel plans, hotels / accommodation, competition details.
6. Your firearms licence details – your licence or permit to possess firearms, or in some cases your club and national association membership, safe hunting course certification. An image of your documentation is required.
7. Details of firearms you wish to bring – hunting or target shooting rifles or shotguns, or pistols for approved pistol competitions are allowed into New Zealand.
8. Security for your firearms when they are not in your personal possession – usually storage with a New Zealand licence holder. Otherwise, you must provide details of how you will securely store your arms and ammunition.

If we need further information before we grant your licence, we will contact you using the email address you provide in your personal details.

We will advise you of the approval or refusal of your application to the email address you provide in your personal details.

Application Fee

The application fee is NZD25.

The fee is non-refundable.
